

Moscow mayor Sergei Sobyenin has decided on additional measures to combat coronavirus:

- Since April 22, people with suspected coronavirus, as well as with symptoms of acute respiratory viral infections and other acute respiratory infections, are required to comply with the regime of self-isolation at home. At the same time, it is allowed to move around the city in order to receive medical care, including using vehicles on the basis of a issued digital pass.
- The regime of self-isolation applies to everyone who lives with people with symptoms of acute respiratory viral infection and coronavirus. Movement around the city is allowed in order to receive medical care. You can also go to the store and pharmacy, throw out trash and walk with pets 100 meters away from the house.
- In order to monitor compliance with the self-isolation regime by citizens listed above, electronic location monitoring technologies will be used, including the use of technical devices.
